

My Notes:

1. Is Jesus welcomed in your groups? (vs. 3)
 - Do you talk to God? If so, what about? If not, why not?
 - Do you expect God to say something back?
 - Is God an okay topic among your friends, or would they frown if they heard you mention Him?
 - Would your friends be shocked to know you are a Christian?
 - Is prayer ever a suggestion that is mentioned when friends have problems?
 - Of your friends, how many of them attend church? Have you invited them?

2. We are often led to believe that what we have is not good enough. (vs. 7)
 - Either by friends, ourselves, or comparisons.
 - God does not want us to make comparisons.
 - He knew what he was going to do with you. He gave you just the right amount. (vs. 6)

3. There are two types of people those who are critical or creative. (vs. 7-9)
 - Notice the people who speak into your life, in what category do they fall?
 - How would you describe yourself? Sometimes birds of a feather flock together.

4. Do the best you can. (vs. 9)

"My job is to do the best I can. The rest is in God's hands." -Martin Luther Jr

 - God calls for what we have even if it's not the best by comparison in the world.

5. Share what you have with a Godly mentor. (vs. 8-9)
 - Place your gifts in the hands of someone who knows what to do with it. (Trainer/coach)

6. What you have been given is useful to the body of Christ. (vs. 11)

7. Give what you have to God. (vs. 11)

The Mathematics of Relationship: I'm = me Possible = Jesus

Me + Jesus = NOTHING IS IM+POSSIBLE

Me - Jesus = IMPOSSIBLE NEVER REACHED
